

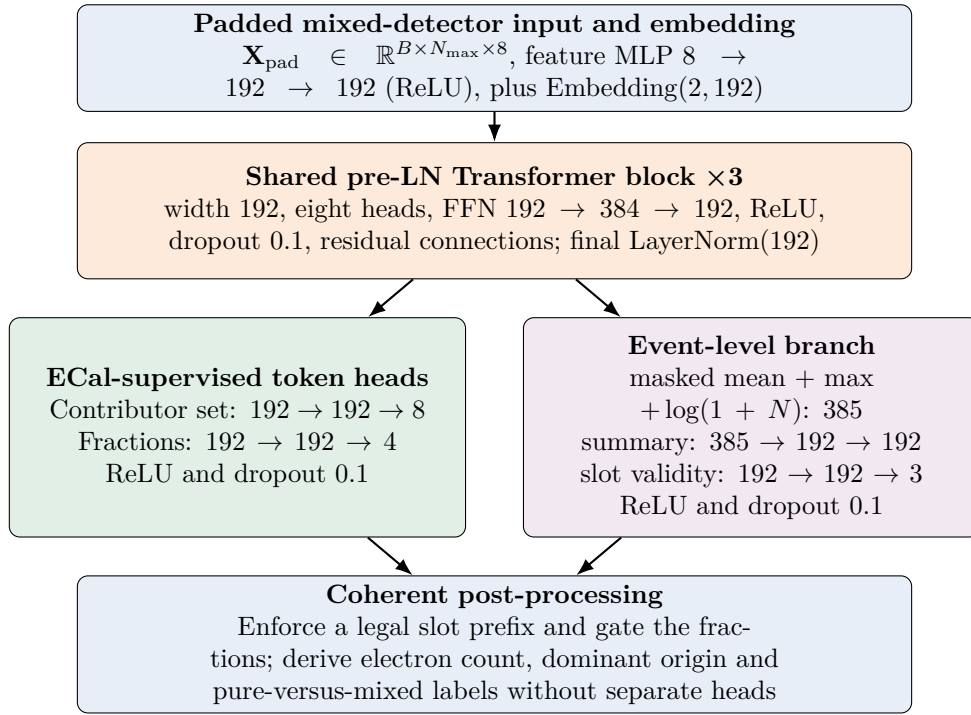

Figure 1: Architecture of the selected MLPF-inspired contributor-set slot model. The eight contributor-set classes encode all subsets of three electron slots; the four fraction components represent background and the three slots.